REAL ESTATE FINANCE CONCENTRATION

The Real Estate Finance concentration provides a program of study that focuses on emerging trends and issues in real estate markets. Students in the Real Estate Finance concentration learn to apply economic techniques to real estate markets, and to describe, explain, and predict patterns of real estate prices, building production, and real estate consumption. The program prepares real estate professionals for public sector and private industry jobs in real estate analysis, appraisal, corporate asset management, development, insurance, and investment.
