Academic Programs

Program name	Program type
Philosophy	BA, Minor
Religious Studies	Minor
Western Intellectual Tradition	Minor

The Philosophy Department at Cal Poly is one of the largest in the CSU system. It prides itself on excellence in teaching and the high standards met by its students. A degree in philosophy is one of the best preparations for graduate or professional school and the evidence for this is substantial. Nationally, philosophy majors outscore everyone but majors in mathematics and physics on the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT). Similar trends are also seen for scores in all sections of the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) and on the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT), the exam required by most MBA programs.

The reason for this is unsurprising. The study of philosophy requires the meticulous development of general analytical reasoning skills. Even students not planning to go on to graduate or professional school are well served by the analytical and verbal skills developed by the study of philosophy. The ability to communicate clearly and forcefully is increasingly rare and, as a result, increasingly sought after in the job market.

Undergraduate Programs

BA Philosophy

Students can pursue a curriculum leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in Philosophy, including optional concentrations in Philosophy and Religion, Ethics of Science and Technology, and Ethics and Society. The department also offers a minor in Philosophy, courses and a minor in Religious Studies, and directs an interdisciplinary minor in The Western Intellectual Tradition. An unusually large number of courses is offered in the history of philosophy, as well as courses in specific areas of philosophy (logic, ethics, metaphysics, epistemology), courses that deal with the philosophical issues arising in other disciplines (e.g., philosophy of science, philosophy of literature, aesthetics), courses in eastern philosophy, and applied ethics courses especially in areas related to science and technology.

Concentrations

Students may choose to complete 20 units of 300-400 level philosophy courses or choose one of three concentrations.

Ethics and Society

Designed for students with an interest in pursuing professional careers in which they will need to address practical ethical issues, especially careers in business, medicine, politics and law.

Ethics of Science and Technology

Designed for students with an interest in careers involving science and technology, whether as makers or other roles (such as in business, law, policy, advocacy, and government) to understand, evaluate, and influence the responsible development of new and emerging innovations.

Philosophy and Religion

Designed for students with an interest in religion, including those interested in pursuing careers in religious ministry or graduate work in Religious Studies or Philosophy of Religion.

Degree Requirements and Curriculum (<https://catalog.calpoly.edu/collegesandprograms/collegeofliberalarts/philosophy/baphilosophy/>)

Philosophy Minor

The minor program in Philosophy is designed for students who want to add to their education an understanding of the history of philosophy, of contemporary trends in philosophy, or of philosophical issues relevant to their major field of study. Interested students are invited to contact the Philosophy Department Office or website for more information and application forms.

Philosophy Minor Objectives:

1. Significant critical skill
2. Competence at philosophical writing
3. Good, general knowledge of the history of philosophy, or grasp of main currents in contemporary philosophy
4. Familiarity with methods of contemporary philosophical inquiry

Religious Studies Minor

The Religious Studies minor program is designed for students who want to enhance their understanding of the great religious traditions of the contemporary world and some of the social issues involving these religions. Interested students are invited to contact the Philosophy Department Office for more information and application forms.

Minor Program Learning Objectives:

1. Demonstrate general knowledge of how various disciplines approach religious phenomena and be able to apply a variety of methodological frameworks to data in the field of Religious Studies.
2. Develop basic religious literacy regarding the literary expressions, worldview, historical formations, ritual & practice, sacred texts, material world, and engagement with contemporary issues for several world religions representing diverse cultural backgrounds.
3. Analyze how a religion interacts with the culture to which it belongs, explaining how it shapes and is shaped by its surrounding society.
4. Demonstrate how religions inform, shape, and shed light upon contemporary issues, concerns, and debates.
5. Show how religious diversity contributes to overall diversity on the planet and specifically how Religious Studies advances student attainment of Cal Poly's Diversity Learning Objectives.
6. Understand how religions can both contribute to and detract from the productive harmony between groups (convivencia)
